

Pulse

Survey your employees on anything you can think of with Rippling Pulse. Automatically send the right surveys at the right moment, unify the results with all your data in Rippling, and trigger powerful follow-up actions that help you act quickly on the trends that matter most.

Automatically send surveys based on any employee data

Create triggers that distribute the right survey, to the right people, at the right time, without lifting a finger—like onboarding surveys sent 30 days after a new hire starts.

Target exactly the right audience

Send surveys to precisely the participants you want to hear from—like managers with 2+ reports—without the need to create and double-check time-consuming distribution lists.

Trigger follow-up actions based on survey responses

Automatically kick off workflows—like emails, tasks, and meetings—based on the responses you get, and quickly take action where it's needed.

Control exactly who can see which results

Restrict which survey responses and data individual managers can see, while giving HR and business leaders a company-wide view.

Get started quickly with peer-reviewed templates

Get a head start with our library of survey templates—including engagement, new hire, and exit surveys—and gather feedback quickly without starting from scratch. Or create your own custom surveys on anything you can dream up.

Uncover important trends with unified reporting

Add context to your reports with data from anywhere in Rippling or your third-party apps—like compensation and equity data, DEI information, and even number of assigned JIRA tickets—and connect the dots without the need for guesswork.

Questions? Contact sales@rippling.com.